

Un Poco Paco

With vintage metal-disk dresses costing at least a couple thousand dollars, who would have guessed that 150 bucks could buy you your very own piece of Paco Rabanne? However, this hefty discount involves some labor of love. Completely unconstructed, the frock comes with 1,300 rings, 750 sequins, two sets of pliers and, to make things authentic, one metal Paco Rabanne label, all tools to crafting a sparkling DIY shift in a myriad of hemlines. Paco Rabanne dress kit $150, exclusively at Sloan/Hall, Bernardo Siatong

The Mane Event

Whether you're jetting away on a Rio rendezvous or off to break a sweat at the local gym, Claudia and Rino Jasper's stylishly packaged, pocket-sized haircare products will lessen the load in your Vuitton tote. The travel-safe, mono-dose portions target specific hair types: ginseng and mandarin for stressed tresses, olive oil and lemon for bottled blondes and brunettes. Each kit comes equipped with shampoos, conditioners and styling finishes, so let 'er rip, lather and toss. Ideas To Go minikits $11 each at Mix, Prestige & Creation Salon, Bernardo Siatong
